and large groups of pupils, they can meet the needs of the students and can tell just where each student is at grade-level and capability. They try to use a very flexible schedule and move students as they see fit.

He further stated that the school system should provide and direct learning experiences so that each student can learn to like himself better, understand himself better, gain a perspective of his role in society, learn to work with others and to learn in diverse ways; there should always be curriculum and methodology which stimulates the ability and disposition to learn continually. Realizing that each pupil enrolled in the Intermediate School is endowed with some potential, ascertained through thorough diagnostic work, Beamon feels that this potential must be developed and made functional.

Dr. Fratrick, Chairman of the School Board, thanked both the principals for their enthusiasm and informed them that they had the full support of the entire School Board.

In other business before the board, Frank Churchek, Administrative Assistant, reported that due to weather conditions progress at the new high school had been slowed down, but that furniture and equipment had been selected and is on order.

Eugene Peyton, Superintendent of Schools, reported to the board that for the school year 1971-72 there was a 2.9% average in dropouts on the secondary education level. This is a comparatively low average and is based on an enrollment of 899 students.

The board passed a resolution to have the Virginia Department of Highways put in a storm pipe from Highway 460 to Price Lane to improve an open ditch hazard at the Appomattox Intermediate School.

The board approved a motion made by Mrs. Ruth Webb giving the Superintendent of Schools authority to approve all school trips.

Dennis Torrence and William Perrow appeared before the board, representing the Appomattox County Education Association, to make some suggestions concerning policy changes and improvements of personnel policies.

The board thanked them for their concern and suggested that a representative from the Association plan to be present at all meetings. School Board meetings are open to anyone desiring to attend and board members welcome visitors at any meeting.

Unofficially we are told that 10 of the cards of the train actually hit the vehicle. In his upside down position, Gehring was approximately two feet from the train tracks. The use of seat belts saved a life once again.

board so agreed to this on the advice of legal council.

Gene Richardson, Sheriff of Appomattox County, reported to the supervisors that Melvin Dallas Moore and Carrington Martin had both completed and passed the necessary training program and are now officially qualified as law enforcement officers. Richardson requested the board to draw up a Resolution stated that to the best of their knowledge Moore and Martin had completed the required number of hours and training to qualify as deputy sheriffs. The board so certified this.

The board also authorized Richardson to purchase breath testing ballons for the Sheriff's Department.

Pete Doss, Captain of the Appomattox County Rescue Squad, appeared before the Board of Supervisors asking that they write up an ordinance declaring that, as a voluntary organization, the Rescue Squad is a part of the County functions. The board agreed to do this and to include the Appomattox Fire Department as well.

W. Sam Kerr, county attorney, was requested to write a letter to the State Corporation Commission asking that all telephone calls within Appomattox County be toll-free. At present there are three separate companies in the county.

A letter was received from another county, asking that the Board of Supervisors write Claude Anderson and Howard Anderson, House of Representatives and State Senate, asking that the Welfare Department in the county be left as is and not put into Regional Districts. The board so agreed.

Presented with them is the handsome French-Canadian, Marc LeBel, who dazzles audiences with flying jumps and soaring leaps; He is one of the few ice skaters who hold Gold Medals in both Canada and the United States.

The chorus of 32 young and vivacious "Glamour-Icers" is a very important part of this and other brilliant numbers in this 27th edition of "Holiday on Ice". Trios of these lovelies wind in and out of elastic styled ribbons at the beginning of the colorful "Kaleidoscope." In costumes of lime yellow, screaming pink and blazing orange, they perform one of the fastest paced numbers ever designed for this world-famous skating ensemble.

"Glamour-Icers" hail from the United States and Canada and have been trained with the precision of a championship drill team. Each of the girls is a talented athlete with a flair for show business. Typically, she is 19 years old, has a bright wholesome beauty, and is a good strong skater.

Most "Glamour-Icers" average two seasons with the show, then leave to return to school or get married. Others who want to make "Holiday on Ice" their career are given many opportunities to advance themselves.

To encourage cast members to keep their skills well polished, the show holds auditions four times a year. At these, all performers, chorus members as well as principals are encouraged to show the production staff any new ideas they've come up with or any new tricks they have mastered.

"Holiday On Ice" is the only ice show to appear in Roanoke this season, and tickets for this family entertainment event are reported selling rapidly. There will be seven performances at the Roanoke Civic Center, 7:30 p.m. Wednesday through Saturday, Oct. 25-28, also 5:30 p.m. Sunday, Oct. 29, and 1:30 p.m. on Saturday and Sunday. Tickets are available at the Civic Center box office and all Heironimus stores in Roanoke.
